The train also carried a number of refugees. Many women and children were also killed by the explosion that wrecked the train. The cars caught fire after the wreck and scores of the wounded were burned to death. General Freylinck narrowly escaped with his life, feigning death when the Villafranca wrecked many who had survived the wreck.

George W. Stillson died as he was being taken into the Portsmouth Hospital at 12.30 this morning after being hit over the head with some weapon and rolled on Fleet street, only a few yards from his home on Court street. It is believed that a black jack was used and that more than one man was implicated in the work. Mr Stillson was attacked between 11.40 and 11.45 o'clock. The police, assisted by several volunteers working under Marshal Hurley and Dep. Ducker, are searching the city in an effort to obtain clues of the murderer and his assistants. One or two men are now under suspicion as it is known that they were the last to leave Stillson's place of business on Fleet street and were aware that he would be carrying home the receipts for the day. When found he had a gun of nearly 10.00 in silver, but there were no bullet marks on it.

Mr. Stillson was found by John E. Woods, residing at 5 Fleet street, in front of which the murder was committed. Mr. Woods was in bed in the front room on the second floor of the home and heard the moaning from the sidewalk below the window. He notified the police station and then went to the street as soon as he could get into some clothing. Mr. Woods, in an interview told of hearing whistling, as though one man was sending a signal to others, and that these were answered by a man standing near the old carriage on Court street. Miss Adelaide Thurston, who occupies the other half of the house, was in the rear of her house writing, and she also heard these whistling signals exchanged. Mr. Woods was on the scene when the police patrol arrived and said that the whistling could be heard up to a moment before. He did not see anyone and it is his belief that whoever did the job made their escape across the park or gut Jinking avenue after passing by the armory.

Miss Thurston believes that one man connected with the murder was stationed on Fleet street near the gate at the side of Dr. Towle's residence. The doctor was called by Officer McCaffery who arrived in answer to the call of Mr. Woods.

Mr. Silhisen was lying on the sidewalk in a pool of blood when Mr. Woods reached him. He was taken to the office of Dr. P. S. Towle on State street and was removed shortly after to the hospital. Dr. Towle accompanying him. His skull was badly crushed by the blow and he failed to regain consciousness, dying as he was being carried through the door.

It is the theory of the police that the man was murdered by someone familiar with the route he usually took as he went to his home. Two men were in the saloon as he was taking the cash from the register just before closing for the night at 11:00 o'clock. He was seen on Market Square and was spoken to by Valney Haderg, usually seen at 11:15, and as near as Mr. Woods can Chihuahua City, Mexico, by courier to El Paso, April 21.—Mexican troops on the airplane that flew over the city on Wednesday morning. The shots failed to hit the machine, which was too high in the air to be damaged. Within the last 72 hours, a group of American newspaper correspondents who came here from the border to run down the apparently inspired report of the death of Villa, have been stoned by natives on three different occasions. One accident of this kind happened while Americans were being personally escorted by Carranza soldiers. Investigations of conditions here shows that Mexican citizens and troops stand on a common ground as regards the American troops—both are resolved that the expedition must return to its own country. Carranza officials have spread the information that the withdrawal of the U. S. forces may be expected shortly and as a result American citizens are preparing to abandon their interests there and leave with the troops. They foresee after the departure of the soldiers, Mexico plunged into chaos and plunder unsurpassed even in this country of revolution and outlaws. Already there are complaints that the Carranza government has unlawfully seized property of American citizens in this district, suspect that German influence is playing a great part in American and English residents of Mexico already have banded into a chartered organization to fight back the German influence but confess that it has been a losing fight.

Assault,

Salonica, April 11.—German troops have blown up ten bridges on the railway connecting Dobovitsa, Dolan and Gjevelj near the Greco-Serb frontier. The purpose of this destruction was apparently to hamper the Anglo-French forces when they begin their drive into Serbia. On the night of April 17, French aviators bombed German encampments at Negarel and Hadoliza. The next day the same aerial squadron dropped bombs at Gjevelj and on April 19 the aviators bombed the aerodrome at Negarel, Padegna and the railway station at Strumica.

Paris, April 21.—French troops in their general offensive against the Germans at Verdun, have gained ground on both sides of the Meuse. It was officially announced today. The communication states that in an attack Thursday, on Dead Man's Hill and Courtois wood, the French captured trenches and also took 154 prisoners. On the east bank of the Meuse the French troops also gained ground, advancing into Ilautremont wood. The Germans were also active Thursday. Following a terrific bombardment on the Hunnont-Vaux front, the Kaiser's troops launched a furious attack which enabled them to capture a few trenches near the Douaumont pond. The French made their answer to this attack under the cover of darkness and in a night assault ejected the Germans from the position which they had captured.

SUNSET LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

F. W. Hartford, Jerry Lyons and Allen Robinson Elected Directors of Portsmouth's Baseball Organization for 1916 Season.

"Play Ball." Not yet, but within a few weeks the Sunset League will be in full swing with the P. A. C. Y. M. C. A. K. of C. Morley Hutton Company, Consolidation Coal Company, Portsmouth Navy Yard, and possibly the Widdler Shoe Company teams in action. The first meeting of the league was held Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. F. W. Hartford, president, presiding. The meeting elected as the board of directors for the 1916 season, F. W. Hartford, Jerry Lyons and Allen Robinson.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 o'clock with a large number from each of the six teams. It was marked by the greatest amount of enthusiasm and the directors were elected by the unanimous votes of the six delegates.

The directors will meet this afternoon and organize and at the meeting of the league on next Monday evening the by-laws will be adopted and the schedule will be arranged.

Widdler Shoe Co., Asking Admission.

The Widdler Shoe Company, represented by "Heinie" Cragen and Mr. Leonard, presented a petition to the newly elected Board of Directors for admission into the league. The question of their admission will be recommended or not by the Board and if admitted the W. S. C. will likely prove a strong factor in the 1916 race. The Sunset League will have at least the same six teams which played the successful season of 1915 and from the amount of interest shown at the meeting this season of 1916 should prove just as successful. The grand stand built last season by the league will likely be supplemented this year by new bleachers, to be built where the old ones now stand. The present bleachers will probably be moved further out towards the outfield and the additional seating capacity will take care of a thousand or more fans who were obliged to stand during the games last season.

Boxing Match on May 5

Manager Dow of the Birmingham A. C. announced last evening that he had matched Carl Hertz, the clever colored lightweight, against Billie Al Nelson, son of Manchester, for a bill to be staged here on May 5. The boxing fans, who have been patiently waiting for some thing to happen in this line, should see one of the fastest and best bouts this club has presented. Nelson and Hertz are men very evenly matched and their styles of fighting are as similar as it is possible to find in two boxers. Both are fast hitters and clever and the fans are to be congratulated in having Mr. Dow secure them as other clubs in larger cities have been after them for some time.

Plan Summer War Game

Sea and Land Forces Will Work Together in New England.

Washington, April 21.—Secretary Daniels announced last night the detailed schedule of summer operations for the Atlantic fleet.

The program includes squadron exercises off Newport, tactical maneuvers in Narragansett Bay and war games in which the army will co-operate, centering upon New York and Boston.

From May 16 to June 17, the fleet will be occupied in steaming trials and divisional exercises with brief respite at home stations. On June 19, a fortnight of squadron exercises will begin off Newport. The fleet will be divided for July 4 observations, with shore leave for crews, to designation to be selected later.

After assembling July 8 in Narragansett Bay, fleet tactical exercises will consume five days followed, by ship drills and inspections there until July 24.

The destroyer flotilla and mining division then will join the main fleet for joint operations with the army in a war game involving problems for defense of Eastern New York state and city. It will last until July 29 and will be one of the principal summer activities of the fleet.

From August 4 to 10, maneuvers will be held with the army off Boston.

From August 20 to September 1 there will be more strategic maneuvers, and the month of September will be devoted to target practice off Hampton Roads. The ships will be sent to their home yards for overhauling during October.

The submarine flotilla will hold target practice on the southern drill grounds about May 5 and will join in the exercises off New York with New London, Conn., as its base.

The cruiser squadron will take part in the fleet operations, target practice, steaming exercises, except such vessels as are on special neutrality, Atlantic and militia duty.

The Atlantic reserve fleet will be employed during the summer for the annual cruises of the Annapolis midshipmen and the naval militia and for civil training.

FORMER AMBASSADOR ARRIVES AT NEW YORK

New York, April 20.—George Thomas Marve, former ambassador to Russia, has arrived in New York on his way to California, and declined to discuss conditions in Petrograd.

Mr. Marve remained in Petrograd until the arrival of Ambassador David R. Francis but took his departure for this country immediately after. It is not thought likely that Mr. Marve will visit Washington to make any report on conditions in the Russian capital. He refused to discuss the question of his reasons for resigning his post.

MORE MARINES ARE SENT TO SAYVILLE

Philadelphia, April 20.—A detachment of twenty-six marines left the Philadelphia navy yard yesterday for Tuckerton, N. J., and Sayville, N. Y., where are located powerful transatlantic wireless stations. It was stated at the yard that these men would be followed by a much larger detail from the Brooklyn navy yard and that a closer guard would be kept upon the wireless stations for the present.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

COSSACKS SMASH DOWN MORE TURKISH DEFENSES

Petrograd, April 20.—The official war report says:

"In the Black Sea one of our submarines, although attacked by an enemy aircraft, succeeded in sinking a steamer and a sailing ship near the entrance of the Bosphorus under a heavy fire from the enemy batteries."

"Caucasus Front.—In the region of Anzali, west of Erzerum, our troops by a night assault carried a chain of high hills which had been strongly organized. We captured four Turkish officers and more than 120 men. The enemy left hundreds of dead on the field. We annihilated some enemy elements which had been recently brought from Gallipoli, while the other Turkish troops which participated in the fight sustained heavy losses through our fire and bayonet charges."

"Trebizond Details Lacking.—Full details are still lacking of the surprisingly brilliant Russian descent upon Trebizond, and of the strategy that forced the Turkish defenders precipitately to abandon the city, which with German assistance, they had made every effort to convert into a stronghold impregnable against Russian attack from the sea or land. But according to the latest despatches, a decisive part in the Russian operations was played by the Black Sea fleet, which after a severe bombardment of the city of destruction of the great Turkish shore batteries, landed a considerable number of troops and further threatened the surrounded city."

"Employing the same tactics as they had repeatedly used with success in their progress along the littoral, the Russian war ships moved forward for some distance beyond their objective, and sent troops ashore, considerably to the westward of Trebizond, threatening to encircle the Turkish garrison. This move was carried out in concert with the advance of the Russian land forces, which, since the capture of the Turkish positions at Kara Dere, had penetrated to within striking distance of Trebizond without meeting serious resistance and was accompanied by a steady bombardment from the sea. As soon as the Turks witnessed the Russian preparations to land beyond Trebizond they gave up all resistance, and scattered pell-mell in the two directions open to them—one the route along the coast, and the other the road southwest toward Erzerum."

"50,000 Turks in Trebizond.—Trebizond contained a garrison of between 50,000 and 60,000. What part of these troops effected their escape it is not possible to say, but it is believed here that large numbers were cut off and made prisoners by the forces landed from the Russian transports. A considerable amount of war booty, including a large number of the latest type German heavy guns, was left behind, for, since the fall of Erzerum, Trebizond has been the chief base and provisioning centre for the Turks operating in this theatre."

"With the fall of Trebizond the Turks lost the second of their two principal fortified points in Asia Minor, and will in the future have to depend solely upon improvised defence, and the natural difficulties of the country to prevent the westward sweep of the Russian Caucasian armies."

"Trebizond never before surrendered to Russian arms, although it was threatened from Balıktari in 1830 and the moral effect of the victory is considered here will be enormous. For centuries Trebizond has been the chief trading center for Asia Minor with the important caravan routes into the interior of Turkey and Persia."

"Campaign Against Constantinople.—Russia's firm foothold on the Armenian plateau, it is contended by officials in Petrograd, will open up a brilliant prospect for the future operations of the Caucasian armies, whose right flank is now secured, permitting the advance of the Central armies west of Erzerum without danger of a Turkish turning movement from the coast."

"Russian observers are speculating on the possibility of a successful campaign against Constantinople, from the west and express the opinion that the defeat of the Ottoman Empire has been brought decidedly nearer, which would mean that Russia and Great Britain could then release forces now occupied against Turkey and turn them against Germany and Austria."

"Capture Montefume Pass.—The Home, via London, April 20.—The following official communication was issued: "In the region of Adamello, Monday, our Alpine troops drove out the last remaining enemy detachments along the summit of the ranges and occupied Montefume Pass, 3,102 yards above sea level."

"In the Ledro Valley with the destruction of the enemy's successive lines of resistance, we continued a gradual advance toward the summit of Monte Spicciotto. "There is marked artillery activity from the region of the river Adige to Trento. In the Sugana Valley Monday night renewed enemy efforts against our positions west of the Laganza torrent broke down under our fire. The same night on Col di Lana in the upper part of Cordevolo Valley, after wrecking the enemy lines with mines we assaulted and captured the extreme western peak of Montecorno. Most of the enemy in the trenches here were buried under the debris of killed. Survivors of the Kaiserjaeger Regiment aggregating 164, including also officers fell into our hands. In addition we captured a large quantity of arms, ammunition and other war material."

"Voluntary merriment on enemy columns which was hastily proceeding toward Monte Sief, was dispersed by our artillery."

"Lose a Trench Temporarily.—Petrograd, via London, April 20.—The official communication issued by general headquarters reads: "In the Drinsk region, south of Gar-bunovka, during the night of April 18, the Germans poured a tremendous fire into one of our trenches at the village of Glinovka, then attacked and carried a trench, which we recaptured by a counter-attack."

"In the region west of Pustavy our artillery dispersed enemy columns. Northwest of Kremenetz and on the upper Stripa the enemy exploded mines."

"Turks Massacre Greeks.—London, April 20.—Wholesale massacres of Greeks at Adrianople, Constantinople and Smyrna are reported in a Salonica despatch to the Morning Post."

"In Adrianople and Demotica, Turks and Bulgarians acting together, says the despatch, killed 400 and wounded 300 Greeks after pillaging their houses. In the Smyrna district several Greek villages were raided, 200 persons being killed, and many wounded."

"Constantinople was likewise the scene of serious massacres, no figures pertaining to which," adds the correspondent, "are available. All the massacres occurred on April 11."

"Seize Greeks Near Dolran.—London, April 20.—A Reuters Salonica despatch says that enemy detachments carried off a number of Greeks from villages between Dolran and Akinjall on Wednesday but did not molest the Turkish or Bulgarian inhabitants."

"Dutch Taking No Chances.—The Hague, via London, April 20.—"Dangers which the Government fear have not yet disappeared," declared the premier, Dr. Van Der Linden, to a delegation which had requested him to allow furloughs to Dutch soldiers for the customary Easter holidays. The premier said emphatically that no furloughs would be allowed, declaring that the maintenance of Dutch neutrality demanded the continuance of the strictest measures to prevent "our being surprised by events."

GREEK BOY IS KILLED BY FALL FROM ELEVATOR

MANCHESTER YOUTH FELL
TWENTY FEET WHILE AT PLAY ON OUTSIDE ELEVATOR OF FORSYTH BUILDING.

Manchester, April 20.—Arthur Evangelos, a Greek boy fifteen years of age was instantly killed (his coroner by a fall of twenty feet from an outside elevator at the Forsyth Machine shop at the corner of Canal and Water streets. The fall fractured the skull of the youth and death was instantaneous. It has been the habit of this lad and several of his companions to play on this elevator, which serves the three floors of the building. They had been warned repeatedly by workmen employed in the Forsyth company and by the men of the E. P. Corbin Machine works, situated on the first floor. No one appears to have seen the accident and the first stories did not agree. But as the elevator was at the second floor at the time of the accident, workmen believe that the boy, in trying to climb to one of the big beams of the framework slipped and fell. The distance is about twenty feet and as the boy dropped he struck with such force against the big double doors leading into the Corbin machine shop as to force them open. Then the body struck against one of the big bumper beams at the bottom of the elevator shaft. It was found directly under the elevator.

Evangelos resided on Auburn street but as his companion at the time was another Greek boy, who was too badly frightened by the accident to say much, little information could be secured.

NEW ARMY BILL IS EXPECTED

CONFERENCE WILL PRODUCE
NEW MEASURE AS PRESENT
DIFFERENCES NECESSITATE
REWRITING

Washington, April 20.—That an entirely new army bill will come out of the conference on the Chamberlain and Hay bill is the outlook today. Even before the conference have been opened it is fairly clear that the sessions will be long, and the profound difference between the two bills will necessitate practically a rewriting of both measures.

From the best information available the House will yield to the Senate on the size of the standing army, and is willing to raise the number from the 140,000 authorized by the House bill to approximately the Senate figure of 250,000. A compromise figure suggested is 220,000.

What will be done about the militia federalization scheme of the House bill few will predict. A wholly new section may have to be drawn. Furthermore, the House conferees do not know how to handle Section 58 of the Senate bill, providing for a volunteer force along the lines of the continental army. It will be remembered that this section passed the Senate with a bare majority.

ty of two votes, so that it does not go to the conference with the force back of it that supports the 250,000 standing army clause.

Events of the past few weeks have convinced members of the House more and more that a larger standing army is necessary, and that provision must be made immediately to increase the regulars. With practically the whole standing army in the United States now either in Mexico or on the border, and with hardly a regiment left within continental United States, it is clear to the most extreme pacifist that this country is far from being prepared. Objections to increasing the standing army on the ground that it could not be recruited to its full force are met with the reply that authorization for a large force in time of peace is better than nothing, for under the stimulus of war recruiting the full strength is easier and quicker.

General Leonard Wood's visit to Seeley of War Baker yesterday, relative to the understanding to Philadelphia encampments, has given new impetus to this movement, and whatever else the conferees do, it is now practically certain that there will be power and money forthcoming for training camps this summer.

KERO-SCENES

"Good morning, Mr. Johnson!"
"Oh good morning, Mrs. Jones! It's some time since we've seen you!"
"Yes, I just stepped in because I saw that SOCONY Kerosene Oil sign in your window. Will you have your wagon stop and get my oil can when you're up my way? The lamps have been giving us a lot of trouble lately and I suspect it's the oil. You can recommend this SOCONY brand, can't you?"
"Yes ma'am. It's the Standard Oil Company of New York's best grade of kerosene. You'll find it absolutely clean, clear-burning, and it's always the same. Will three gallons be enough?"
"Yes, I think so. And while I think of it, send me up a bunch of this celery, a peck of potatoes, and—let's see—I guess that's all. Oh! yes—and a pound of butter!"
"Yes ma'am, we'll send them right up this afternoon. Do you want the delivery man to stop in and take your order tomorrow?"
"Yes, I wish he would, thank you. Good-day."

Moral for the Dealer—Kerosene isn't the only thing the SOCONY sign helps to sell.

PUBLICITY A PROTECTION

Corporations Should Take Public into Confidence by Advertising the Truth. St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—Advertise, and the unscrupulous vote attacking attacks of politicians on corporations will stop—that was the advice which William W. Sells, senior member of Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants of New York, gave to the members of the Advertising Club of St. Louis.

Mr. Sells declared that corporations with large affairs had become the prey of politicians to such an extent that he felt it his duty to advise the heads of corporations to take the public into their confidence by advertising the truth in the newspapers.

"There is no shadow of doubt concerning the unscrupulous power of advertising in whatever field it operates. In recognition of this I venture to suggest the proper and adequate advertising, in a systematic and scientific manner, of the financial affairs of the corporations in which the public is interested directly as shareholders or indirectly through the influence of the corporations upon general business conditions."

"Advertising the financial affairs of corporations is of great public importance, and advertising agents have a public duty in this connection that should be performed, the effects of which should be far reaching and of inestimable public benefit."

GUARANTEED CHICKS

I guarantee every chick to live and will replace all lost during the "critical period."

Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, April 21, 1916.

A Pathetic Story.

A pathetic story comes from New York concerning an artist who has been brought into prominence by his own misfortunes and the whims of the public. His name is Ralph Albert Blakelock and is just now on every tongue in art circles, and pictures that he could hardly give away at the time they were painted are bringing high prices and receiving high praise from those who are recognized as competent judges of art.

Mr. Blakelock has been confined in an insane asylum for seventeen years, he having broken down under the strain and trials of his active life. If the present judgment of the public is correct he was an artist entitled to wide recognition and it would seem that his work should have established this fact, but it did not. As a contemporary says, he was obliged to "peddle" his pictures at starvation prices in trying to keep the souls and bodies of himself and his family together. He finally broke down under the pressure of hard work and disappointment and was placed in an asylum, with hopes blasted and heart broken.

The years rolled by and the general public was not aware that there was such an artist as Ralph A. Blakelock. But in some way it was finally discovered that there was merit in his work and now his name has been made familiar throughout the land and art lovers are ready to pay fat prices for his pictures, the profits going to persons who bought them for a song instead of to him.

So many writers have had similar experiences that one is sometimes led to wonder whether work in such lines as literature and art are always judged strictly on their merits, as is claimed. We read occasionally of authors who are able to sell at good prices manuscripts that were savagely rejected before they acquired their reputations. Mr. Blakelock's pictures which now command high praise and high prices are the same that they were when he was obliged to sell them for a pittance to keep him and his family from starvation. If the paintings are selling on their merits why did their value fail of recognition when they were first offered?

It is a pitiful story, but the experience of Mr. Blakelock is as old as art and literature, and it will probably be repeated to the end of time. Unfortunately, it proves that work of this kind is not always correctly judged when first offered, and that genius and its recognition are liable to be widely separated by time.

The desire for change is one of the most striking characteristics of the times, as is illustrated constantly in all the affairs of life. A few years ago the Methodists substituted the title of presiding elder with district superintendent, and now there is a proposition to go back to the original title, it being contended that "district superintendent" smacks too strongly of factory or other business matters. If this is a matter of any importance it should have been thought of before the change was made, but a change was wanted then and a change is wanted now. There is little profit in change for the sake of change, of which there is too much at the present time.

A prominent Mexican who arrived in New York a few days ago says German agents are busy in that country trying to stir up war between Mexico and the United States, and there is danger that with the aid of certain Americans who are in no better business they may succeed. Preparedness against this sort of thing is a necessity which it will be well to keep in mind in these trying times.

George W. Peck, former governor of Milwaukee and for many years prominent as a writer and newspaper publisher, is dead. His best remembered work is "Peck's Bad Boy," which had very much of a vogue some forty years ago, and which is well remembered by old timers with an appreciation of humor.

The Herald editor, although a little late, wants to testify to the many fine qualities of Perry H. Dow of Manchester as an excellent host and an all around good fellow. Had the editor been in this section at the time he certainly would have been at that dinner.

Let all Portsmouth prepare for a season of joy and pleasure. The Sunset League is about to announce the opening game of the season. The league is in fine shape and a big season is assured. Portsmouth is bound to be happy.

The weather continues so mixed that it is still more or less of a gamble as to what it will be for the display of Easter linen. The women have made due preparation in spite of the cost of living and are hoping for the best.

At the present moment it looks as though Waller M. Parker and his colleagues would be shouting for Theodore Roosevelt for president at Chicago if they are with the winner.

FEELING AGAINST CARRANZA

Enmity Against Him Brought to Head by Entry of U. S. Troops Into Mexico.

(Special to The Herald)
El Paso, April 21.—The anti-Carranza faction of the de facto government headed by General Obregon and General Candido Aguilar, respectively, Ministers of War and Foreign Affairs, is detaching every move now made by Mexico. The American campaign in Mexico brought the long smoldering enmity against Carranza to a head. Carranza made no protest against the entry of American soldiers into Mexico and his foes took this opportunity to solidify the opposition. The demand for the recall of the U. S. troops followed. Carranza was forced to leave Queretaro and go to Mexico City to save his life. Instead of making a triumphant journey, Carranza was fleeing for his own safety.

ITALIANS TAKE LOFTY PEAK

Only 120 Out of 1,000 Austrians Survive Attack.

(Special to The Herald)
Rome, April 21.—By capturing Chi Di Lina, a lofty peak in the Dolomite Alps, Italian troops crowned with success an engineering task undertaken only when direct military measures failed after causing heavy losses to the Italians. The peak was defended by 1,000 picked Austrian troops, of whom almost everyone was wiped out when an explosion of mines blasted the Austrian defenses, only 120 of the 1,000 defenders surviving.

MUCH DAMAGE BY CLOUDBURST

Many Injured and Property Loss Heavy in Gulf Coast States.

(Special to The Herald)
New Orleans, April 21.—One woman was killed and another injured in a tornado near Mobile, Ala., early today and much damage was done in other sections adjacent to the middle Gulf coast. Near Duluth, Minn., the storm wrecked a dozen houses, injured many people and sank two small boats. A cloudburst at Yarrington, flooded the street to a depth of ten feet. Forty persons were marooned in a hotel all night.

SAY VILLA IS IN DURANGO

El Paso, April 21.—Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul at El Paso received word today that Villa is in the mountainous district west of Durango City in the State of Durango. An earlier report had located the bandit leader in the State of Zacatecas, but Garcia said his information had come from a reliable source. The consul admitted that the reports of Villa's death had been officially discredited.

GREECE MAKES A PROTEST

London, April 21.—A dispatch from Athens says that Greece has delivered to the German government a sharp protest against an invasion of Greek territory by the Germans. They are accused of entering the villages of Agia Paraskavi and Kifissari near the frontier and carrying away 27 men and 17 women.

STILL LOOKING OVER THE OLD RECORDS

Asst. Attorney General Joseph S. Matthews of New Hampshire, is still poring over old records at St. Johnsbury, Vt., gathering material for use when the Vermont-New Hampshire boundary line dispute comes up in the United States supreme court. General Matthews has been in Montpelier ten days, thus far on this visit, and likely will be there several days longer. Later, the New York state records at Albany will be looked over. The Albany visit may not come until after the state's lawyers have followed the course of the Connecticut river from the Massachusetts line to Canada with their engineers. Attorney General Tuttle in all probability will accompany his assistant on this trip, although General Matthews has made all the arrangements in the case up to now.

CURRENT OPINION

Women of This Country Largely to Blame for Their Disfranchisement.

Women who believe that they have not enough sense to vote have not sufficient sense to bear children. The housekeeping problems of today are the problems of politics.

It is on these things that the women of the country should be allowed some voice. The women of today are not allowed to say how long their children shall go to school. This important matter is settled by politics. They cannot decide the questions of housekeeping, such as water, garbage, gas and electric lighting, street cleaning and numberless other things which vitally affect the home.

I blame the women in every state in part for the present disfranchisement. The sphere of the great masses of the women of this country is not at home.

It is the homemaker woman of this country who must be awakened to the need she has for the ballot. If this class could only be shown that they have real need for the ballot! They need it as the homemaker, the child bearer, the child raiser. They need it to get a larger enlightenment on life, to gain a wider intelligence and to be able to enlarge her sympathies, to be able to grow, to widen her interests, and she will then be able to bear better children. It is by making better women that the country can hope to have better babies.—By Helen Ring Robinson, State Senator of Colorado.

COULD EASILY DESTROY LINERS

aged into American hands? Most ship men and others familiar with military conditions in American ports and with the disposition of the German officers and crews as a rule, believe that they would not.

So far as could be learned yesterday, no orders have been received in Boston from the seat of government looking to a closer watch on the German vessels. A reporter sent out to make inquiries concerning possible developments in regard to the ships, in the event of war, encountered a certain official who would not permit the use of his name, but who had this to say on the subject.

"So long as war is not declared the United States cannot keep a military guard on the ships to protect them from possible injury. Once war is declared there is reason to believe, in the case of the ships laid up at Boston, at least, that the German captains would know of it instantly.

"The information could be obtained by the German captains by certain secret means known to government officials here, but which until war is declared they cannot be prevented from using.

"Although the wireless plants on the ships are sealed and government radio inspectors have watched them closely since August, 1914, to see that they remained sealed, there is nothing to prevent the German officers from getting information through private wireless stations and the Boston radio inspectors have believed for some time that they have been so getting such information from a station in a nearby suburb.

"A wireless message from Berlin can be picked up in a Boston suburb as easily as it can at Sayville or Duckett, where the German official stations are maintained with the U. S. naval censors in charge.

"Assume that a message, say the single word, 'War,' were picked up for the German commanders, and telephoned to them in East Boston. How long would it take them to open the sea cocks of their ships, and sink them at the docks? Such damage of course would be remedied in time, by raising the ships. But if they wished to make a more thorough job there is nothing to prevent them from exploding bombs in the ships, or even blowing up their boilers.

"When the Portuguese gathered in 20,000 tons of German shipping as a preliminary to war, it will be recalled that they found the largest of the vessels mined, ready for destruction. There must have been some sharp work on the part of the Portuguese to secure for them all the ships undamaged.

"With our ways of doing things we probably could not install the Germans on the ships if they wished to destroy the vessels. They probably have enough explosives aboard at this moment for the work.

Washington, April 21.—The state department today received word from an American at Colonial, Dublin, the Mormon colony in Mexico, that more Carranza troops are being massed around Parral. The dispatch stated that "great numbers" of Carranza men had left Colonia Morelos for the Parral district. The state department has been without information directly from Parral for two days.

DOES NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING PAY?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country:

NO, A SAID:

"We have always regarded the problem of advertising as a big one, and one worthy of our most careful attention. In our opinion much of the money spent in newspaper advertising is highly profitable, the thought and care used in preparing the copy.

"We began with some products just two years ago, and we are now selling as much or more paint and varnish than any other store here. We question very much whether this would have been possible without the advertising in our local papers."

Latest American Protest to Germany Made Known to Kaiser.

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, April 21.—Chancellor von Bethman-Wolff is understood to have informed Emperor William at army headquarters today of the contents of the latest note from Washington with reference to submarine warfare. No reply will be made before Monday and probably not until the end of next week. Most of the newspapers today refrained from extended comment on the message from President Wilson in accordance with the wishes of the foreign office. The general opinion expressed was that the pro-allies in President Wilson's cabinet had gained the upper hand.

O. L. Frisbee, as Representative of This City, Attended Hotel Men's Meeting.

Olive L. Frisbee attended the Hotel Men's "Boom New England" dinner at the Somerset hotel, Boston, Thursday evening, as a representative of the city of Portsmouth. There were 300 in attendance from all over New England, dressed in every conceivable kind of costume. Albert H. Rowe of Boston was dressed as an English hotel landlord, and he looked every bit like one. O. J. Pelton represented that all trains run to and from Concord to Boston. Mr. Frisbee was dressed in a summer suit of Palm Beach clothes, with golf clubs, tennis racket and paddle in a golf bag decorated with the yacht club flag, representing the summer tourist. Boom New England was started by hotel men, and great interest was manifested at the banquet. Each member wore a paper cocktail hat, red and white, bearing the words "Boom New England."

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald sang "Sweet Adeline," and made a fine speech, as did John L. Damon of the Hotel Thorncliffe, and others.

The menu—Somerset cannape, Massachusetts oysters, Rhode Island clams, Maine schrod, New England corn beef hash, Vermont grates, Connecticut squash, Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association salad, New Hampshire frozen muddlers, Boom cake, Get Together coffee.

There was one round of pleasure from 7 to midnight, amidst the greatest enthusiasm to boom New England. Everybody was told by Billy Davis, the toastmaster, to

"Boom when you leave town. Boom on the way. Boom while there and on the way home. Boom yourself and make everybody else boom."

HOW TO WIN AND KEEP A HUSBAND

Evangelist, Rees Tells Women How Interesting Facts

Concord, April 20.—Never try to reform a young man by marrying him," was the counsel Dr. Milton S. Rees gave to the young women of Concord at the meeting for women, this afternoon in the Pleasant street Baptist church. It is a losing game as the evangelist viewed it for he declared, "What a man is before marriage he will be with some emphasis afterward. The marriage ceremony does not change character, only relations."

"Not all the bad points are embraced in the male portion of the community, however, according to Doctor Rees, who proceeded to lay down some rules on the proper training to win and retain a husband's love. The kitchen is a much better preparatory school than college, he declared, and statistics show that "the young woman who has graduated from her mother's kitchen gets a husband quicker than the one with a college diploma."

"No woman is eligible for matrimony," he added, "until she understands domestic science. It is not fair to the young man to change your name for his, then try a receipt book on him for the next six months. True, if he survives, you may continue to live happily ever after, but too many of them come through ill-tempered dyspepsias, to take the chance."

For dyspepsia, our national ailment use Burdock Blood Bitters. Recommended for strengthening digestion, purifying the blood. At all drug stores, $1.00 a bottle.

NO TROUBLE IS EXPECTED AT DOVER

The possibility of a strike of Boston and Maine trackmen affecting the local yard and sections, roundabout was investigated this morning by the Democrat with the result that fears for such are unwarranted. The nearest home that the pending general walkout has hit is Portsmouth where, yesterday, trackmen threw down their tools and made things lively to such an extent that the police were called upon to quell the disturbance. The striking section men in that city belong to the old organization—the International Brotherhood of Maintenance and Way and because the trackmen affiliated with the new organization—the Brotherhood of Maintenance and Way—wouldn't walk out in sympathy with them the strikers sought to restrain them from working. In this city the trackmen are not divided but belong to one organization—the Brotherhood of Maintenance and Way. This brotherhood is not the organization that is threatening a general walkout and the Democrat reporter was informed by a section foreman that no trouble exists. Dover Democrat.

ALL HIS WORK FOR NOTHING

Took $96 for Chimney Sweeping at Eliot and Gets Arrested.

William H. Cutler of Cambridge, Mass., was arrested in this city, here on Thursday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by Leander Brooks, an aged resident of Eliot. Brooks charged Cutler with obtaining money under false pretenses.
Cutler, who is a steepjack and chimney sweeper, was engaged to do some work on the chimneys at the Brooks residence. When the job was completed, Brooks, claiming Cutler made a demand for $96 for three hours' work. He protested but paid him. Cutler was on his way back to Boston when the police got him. He claimed that the job was worth the money but Lawyer Sewell, who was engaged by Brooks, thought different and when the argument was over, Cutler found that he had labored in Eliot for nothing. To avoid prosecution he refunded the $96 to Brooks and he was released.

recall it was about 11.45 that he was disturbed by the moans. Mr. Stillson was about 35 years old and was a man without an enemy in the world, which makes it clear to his notice that the murder was committed for the purpose of robbery only. He was well liked, popular and respected by a large number of friends, several of whom had repeatedly warned him of the danger he took in removing the cash from the register and carrying the day's receipts home with him each night. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Eva Childs, of Boston.

TRUANCY DECREASED BY MODERN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Introduction of Industrial Work and Study of the Individual Child Are Said to be Solving Problem in Cities

Educational authorities throughout the country are generally agreed that modern methods of handling truancy in the schools systems of the larger cities have resulted in greatly decreasing numbers. In many cities there still exists the serious need of a school that shall care for a certain number of incorrigible boys, but truancy in the old meaning of the word has been practically done away with.

In speaking of the truancy problem in Boston, the superintendent of schools, Dr. Franklin B. Dyer, says that it is practically solved. Broadly speaking, he says, this has been brought about by the introduction of industrial work, specifically by study of the individual child.

Until a few years ago, he continued, schools were of one type and one standard, and teachers and officials combined to force the child into conformity to it. The child that would not be forced ran away and got himself labeled as "bad," when he was not necessarily bad at all, but only disinterested in the kind of thing he was called upon to do. The abstract made no appeal to him, books—school books—did not attract. He wanted to "do" things. The streets fascinated him, and so to the streets he went and made himself generally troublesome.

If held in school until the legal age for leaving he wasted no time in getting out when that moment arrived and either roamed the streets until arrested for one cause or another, or drifted from job to job, too ignorant to do anything well and too untrained to submit to the discipline of hard work.

Now this same type of boy likes his school. He would almost rather go to school than to the zoo. And if he does go to the zoo, nine times out of ten he is aided and abetted in the act by his teacher. He comes back with all sorts of wonderful things to tell about what he saw and heard. With the right teacher, going to school has become a joy, and greater effort is being made to get the right sort of teacher.

Classrooms are not intended to be places of confinement but big, pleasant rooms where boys and girls assemble to work at interesting tasks and play together under the leadership of a sympathetic teacher. Even disciplinary schools are taking on more of this atmosphere in the belief, strengthened by experience, that condemnation and punishment are not nearly as effective in bringing about reforms as subjecting the so-called unruly ones to the discipline of hard work at something worth while that interests them. When put to the test most boys would rather do something that is constructive than destructive. When careful experiment proves they would not, it is conceded that they should be removed from the school entirely and placed where they can be given special attention.

With the introduction and extension of industrial work in the public schools of Boston, disciplinary of truancy cases have been reduced from a permanent average of 300 or 400 to just 17 at the present time. A recent canvass of the school showed that to be the number the masters thought should be separated from the other pupils for their own good and that of the other children. These 17 have been formed into a separate class under a teacher who is especially successful with boys of this type and are being returned to the regular classes as fast as they seem desirable. There is, however, an acknowledged need of a detention department for those boys who need constant watchfulness and support and whose home conditions are not in harmony with this need.

What is true in Boston is true in other cities where industrial education has been advanced. Dr. Dyer says. There was a time when a child might drop out of school at almost any time. Now there are compulsory limits within which a child is legally obliged to go to school, and the city takes great care to enforce them. According to these laws every child in Massachusetts must attend school until he is 14 years of age. When he reaches that age, he may leave to go to work, but he must either work or be in school, and if he works he must attend what is known as the continuation school for at least four hours of every week.

The educational benefit of this industrial work has surprised even its advocates. The child to whom the printed page means nothing but revolt has "found himself" when a tool is put into his hand. He has waxed enthusiastic in the joy of accomplishment and has amazed his teachers by his pluck and perseverance. Under the spur of his interest he has turned naturally, often eagerly, to books or figures that would lead on to the next step or throw light upon the task in hand. In this way academic work that has surpassed that in the regular classes has been easily accomplished by boys who, previous to their industrial interests, had no use whatever for a book or a pen. Upon finishing the elementary school 40 per cent of these boys have gone on to higher schools, yet previous to taking up the industrial work they had intended to leave school as soon as they were 14. In Boston about 750 boys are cared for in industrial classes at the present time.

80% More Efficiency In a New Patented Motor Hudson Super-Six

Patented by Hudson, December 28, 1915. Patent No. 1165561

All Other Cars Outrivalled

At Sheephead Bay, under A. A. supervision, a 7-passenger Super-Six stock car excelled all former stock cars in these tests:

75.69 miles in one hour with driver and passenger. Standing start to 50 miles an hour in 16.2 sec.	100 miles in 30 min., 21.4 sec., averaging 74.67 miles per hour, with driver and passenger.
During these tests the car was driven 1350 miles at top capacity, at speed exceeding 70 miles an hour, without discoverable wear on any part.

ONE short ride will prove to you the Super-Six supremacy. Its vast reserve power—76 horsepower—leads to marvelous performance. Its utter smoothness gives new meaning to luxury of motion.

This Hudson invention is here applied to a light and simple motor. The cylinders are 3 1/2 x 5. By ending vibration, the efficiency of this motor is increased 80 per cent.

Running at half load, this motor will do what full load did before. So the motor is never taxed. And by saving the friction due to vibration, the motor's endurance is doubled.

Once prove these facts and no old-type motor will content you. And you can prove them in 30 minutes. You can prove that no other type—Six, Eight or Twelve—is anywhere near so efficient.

But come and ride in the Super-Six, and form your own conclusions.

Come now if you want early delivery.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe approved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally and evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SOUGHT TO KISS GIRL

Dover Man Given Jail Sentence for Assault.

Dover, April 21.—Stephen Heotele, proprietor of a shoe-shining establishment, was found guilty in the municipal court on Thursday of assaulting Ethel Wallace, aged 13, Monday, while she was there to get her shoes polished.

The girl testified she went there Saturday and paid a nickel for a shine which was unsatisfactory. Her grandmother, with whom she lives on 2d street, told her to go back Monday morning and have them shined better. On that occasion she was accompanied by her seven year old cousin and a baby, brother. Heotele, she said, gave the children a penny to leave, then drawing the curtain between the men's and women's section of the stand, told her he would shine her shoes if she would give him a kiss. She refused and he offered her money. She pulled the curtain back and he spread it again. Just then a man entered the place and she was allowed to go.

Heotele denied the girl's testimony. Judge Nason sentenced Heotele to 60 days in jail and to pay costs of $7.50. He appealed and was held in $200 bonds for the superior court.

ENLISTED MEN GO RECRUITING IN NEW YORK

New York, April 20.—Aroused by the fact that thus far this month the number of enlistments to the army recorded at the recruiting stations in this city is only 21 larger than the number for the corresponding period last month, and that the navy recruiting record is about the same, the 26 enlistments of the last week being regarded as below the average, uniformed soldiers in the regular service of the United States toured New York Wednesday in an automobile, making speeches in several places and urging men to help New York give its full quota of 25,000 additional troops recently authorized by Congress.

Recruiting officers say they have met with unusual difficulties in New York. Their handbills urging men to join the army and navy have been partially offset by bills urging them not to become professional killers of men. In some cases, it is declared, petitions have been sent out asking for signatures to an oath never to join the United States army.

For this reason the officers considered a speaking tour by enlisted men necessary. Handbills were distributed. No recruits were received at the automobile, but all so inclined were urged to report to the nearest recruiting station.

WITH THE SPORTS

(By Frank G. Menke)

Cleveland fans are performing a baseball comeback. The attendance for the first four games of 1916 equalled one-third of the total attendance at the 77 games in 1915—a truly amazing record.

This Speaker's presence on the team is one of the big factors in causing the return of the prodigal fan. There isn't a doubt as to the drawing power of Speaker. But it isn't Speaker alone who has brought about better baseball conditions in Cleveland. The change of ownership has been another mighty drawing card.

The "Sixth City" fans had grown a bit tired of the Somers regime. They became utterly disgusted when Joe Jackson was sold in 1915. But the coming of new owners, with the promise that the team will be built up instead of wrecked still further, has revived interest in the fortunes of the club.

Furthermore, this is an "on" year in baseball. Last season was different. Baseball interest then was at low ebb. Now it is at flood tide. And everything looks rather rosy for the new owners of the Cleveland club. The acquisition of Speaker hasn't given Cleveland a pennant-winning look, but it has strengthened the aggregation and imbued it with the fighting spirit. Next to having a pennant-battling outfit, the best thing is to have one that fights—and fights every minute.

Cleveland fans rightly deserve a pennant as a reward for their loyalty for more than a generation. The Ohio city that secured a National league franchise back in 1870. With the exception of five years—between 1881 and 1889—it has been in one or the other of the big leagues. Yet never over that sweep of time has a pennant flag waved over its ball park.

The Ohioans have sent over 38 entries into the big league races and none ever came back a winner. Each springtime has found the Clevelanders with hopes high but in the end they have been dashed to the ground. The history of baseball in Cleveland is one long chapter of disappointments.

And yet, the Cleveland fans have remained faithful. There have been times when they supported in a meagre way, only because the team itself was such a joke combination, yet on the whole, the fans there have been generous to an extreme.

Twice in modern history, have Cleveland teams been within striking distance of their goal—a pennant. And on both of those occasions, the baseball enthusiasm in Cleveland increased to a frenzy of excitement, swept through the town and practically engulfed it.

Back in 1908, Cleveland lost the pennant by half a game. Had a great catastrophe visited the city, the sorrow and anguish could not have been greater. The city was in semi-mourning for days afterward. That shows how they take baseball in Cleveland—a town of real fans.

On that day in 1908 when Cleveland was scheduled to play its last two games with St. Louis in the Missouri city, practically all the offices and shops were deserted after 3 p. m. The town congregated before the news paper score boards to watch the result. Everything else in life was forgotten save that Cleveland had two games to play and that by winning both it would win the highest honors in baseball.

The details of the game were magnified. Wild roars of applause swept through the down-town district every time a Cleveland player performed some valiant deed. But when the final score was posted, the score that showed Cleveland had lost the game and the pennant because Bill Blinneman had looted on a drive—a home run rolled from over the "fence"—sorrow filled the city.

Cleveland waited five years and then another team shot along toward the pennant goal. It was Joe Blinnham's 1913 outfit. Almost until the clubs raced into the October stretch, the Cleveland team held second position, within striking distance of the Athletics. And then they went east on the final swing along the Atlantic seaboard. The crucial games were to be played. Cleveland had unlimited faith in its team.

But the Naps suffered six successive beatings in their first six games on that trip—and the pennant dreams became a third place nightmare.

Some day Cleveland may have a building winner. If that ever comes to pass, the folks here will become so wildly excited about it that the state legislature will have to appropriate immediately for new booty hatches.

PUBLICITY FOR BUSINESS

Announcement in the public press that the National Association of Manufacturers has undertaken a campaign of publicity for business, shows that the Association is wide awake to the necessity for disseminating correct information on the importance of industry to the United States.

It is a high time that the popular pastime of hampering the operations of business, big and little, be relegated to the scrap-heap. If the people of the United States are mindful of the lessons taught by the war in Europe, they will appreciate that business, the manufacturing, selling and buying of the necessities and luxuries of every day life, is the thing which keeps the nation going in time of peace and prevents it from destruction in time of war. To destroy or even hamper the nation's business is to hamstring the nation itself. The day of trust-busting as a national sport is past.

We no longer regard the Sherman Act or its descendant the Clayton Act as the charter of industrial liberty. The people of the United States are coming to regard such laws with increasing suspicion.

Why, it is asked, should business be prince one day and pauper the next? Would it not be infinitely better to reduce the number of annual failures of business institutions, than to have them constantly organized and disorganized in alternating periods of stress and prosperity; scrapping machinery one day, and reordering the next when good times come. This endless round of failures and reorganizations contributes to raise the cost of commodities produced in the factories of the affected trades.

Business should not be regarded with suspicion but with confidence. Manufacturers are not robbers; they are business men in business for profit, which is precisely the motive which inspires the activity of every human unit in the Republic and every nation in the world. There is nothing objectionable in earning a living. Why look askance at the man who does it by turning a piece of steel into a tool, or sticks of lumber into furniture?

For a number of years this country has gone cheerfully and carelessly along smashing business at home and vilifying it in the eyes of foreign nations. To such an extent has this been carried that foreign nations have refused in some instances to deal with American concerns abroad and have pointed to the vilifying remarks of American legislators as evidence of the undesirable character of the institution under ban.

In the picturesque language of Elbert Hubbard, "when you attack men who maintain pay rolls, you hit the wage earner, kick his wife and cut his children."

It is for the purpose of creating an intelligent public realization of the importance of industry that the campaign of the National Association of Manufacturers has been inaugurated. From American industries for April.

BABY SAVED BY FOUR HOURS WORK WITH PULMOTOR

MANCHESTER OFFICERS MAKE RECORD FOR CONTINUED USE OF MACHINE IN SAVING LIFE OF NEWLY BORN CHILD.

Manchester, April 20.—The local record for continuous use of the pulmotor in the attempt to preserve human life was attained, this morning, when Officer John F. Smith and Chauffeur Moody of the police department worked for four hours and ten minutes to prevent the newly-born son of Anthony Sogas of 845 Chestnut street from strangling.

Dr. L. J. Lacasse telephoned to police headquarters shortly before 1.30 o'clock this morning requesting the police ambulance to hurry with the pulmotor. The response was immediate. The two officers got to work immediately when they arrived and with the physician to keep careful watch of results they worked almost continuously from 1.30 o'clock until 5.40 o'clock. Four tanks of oxygen were consumed and the police had to make a demand upon the People's Gas Company for another before their efforts were crowned with success.

As the tanks cost $2.50 each to fill the police felt that $12.50 for saving a human life was a small price to pay. The boy appears to be thriving after his experience.

GIRLS BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Hair becomes charming, wavy, lustrous and thick, in few moments.

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

For 25 cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggly, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knoviton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

POLICE SECURETWO CLUES

Arrest Expected Soon in Stillson Murder.

The police who worked from every point on the Stillson murder case today hope to be able to make an arrest this afternoon or tonight.

Chief Hurley said this noon that the officers were working on two clues which might lead up to something but the case certainly was blind as far as information was concerned that would identify any certain party with the act.

The most important clue came from the finding of an article, near the scene of murder by some school children, who turned it over to the police. It is evident that the robbery of Stillson had been planned on a night when the assailant would be able to get away with a large amount of money. It was carried out in one of the most appropriate spots and the murderer could not have selected a better location.

Stillson left his place of business about half past eleven. He came through High street onto Congress street and stopped in front of the store of N. H. Beane and Company where he met Officers Kelley and Philbrick and Sheriff Spinkney. The party conversed for about five or ten minutes and Stillson then proceeded through Fleet street where he was seen by Louis Holmes, a night man at the Benches garage who spoke to him as he passed. No officers were seen in that locality at the time. Stillson was probably assaulted about 11:55.

The murderer concealed himself behind a tall fence in a passageway leading to the rear of the residence of Frank J. Philbrick. He stepped out as Stillson passed and delivered the blow, while face to face with the victim. He was struck on the left side of the head, causing a wound of three inches in length extending to the base of the skull. The victim fell with his head in the gutter and feet on the sidewalk.

No doubt while the murderer was laying in wait for his victim, two others were on guard, one at the corner of Fleet and State streets and the other at the corner of Court and Fleet streets, giving signals by whistling which were plainly heard by the people living in the neighborhood.

It is not known exactly how much money he had on his person, but his friends state that he never carried any amount short of $500 or $700. This was taken from an inside vest pocket, also his gold watch.

A post-mortem was made by Dr. George L. Pender at the Portsmouth hospital today, who later stated that Stillson received a hard, quick blow from either an iron bar or a black-jack. The physician believes that the murderer meant to do a good job and that the blow was delivered from the front.

Stillson did considerable business with enlisted men in the way of lending money and caring for money for his friends in the service. Thursday was pay day for the crews of the government ships and he is known to have taken in considerable during the day.

The police have received complaints of men hanging about Fleet street between Congress and Porter streets and though Officers Kelley and Philbrick have watched that section pretty close, have been unable to run into any one of the description furnished by people doing business in that section.

FIRE DESTROYS HETT PROPERTY

Unoccupied Buildings Go Up in Smoke on Banfield Road.

The house, barn and out-buildings owned by August Hett on the Banfield road were destroyed by fire on Thursday. The fire started from a grass fire which the owner had been burning and which he thought had been fully extinguished before he left the place at noon. The wind, however, caused it to blaze again and before assistance could arrive, the buildings were nearly consumed.

Section men from the Boston and Maine railroad were at the scene and assisted in preventing another set of buildings nearby from taking fire. The buildings were unoccupied and valued at less than $1,000. The owner carried no insurance.
